Please consider the following:

Because day care cost is included in my child care cost, I am unable to deduct this on my taxes. The IRS states that day care cost's must be paid directly to the licensed day care center. F.O.C collects this for the custodial parent so she can legally right off the whole amount as a deduction even though she pays half. Is their any way this can be corrected so I can legally deduct what I am paying for.

Also, I have a 170 overnights a year and make $10,000 less than the custodial parent and still pay child support, why? The F.O.C says it's a shared economic, but I would rather have the days I am missing so it would be equal.

Even with this many days I do not get a child deduction on taxes. Is their any way that you can put a standard in effect to state after a certain number of days the tax deduction is alternated every year. This would be fair as our president is given greater deductions on children and I am unable to benefit from this, even with a shared economic.

I am part of the Oakland County system and hope to see changes that help build better families.
